The Bank Deposit Guarantee.

Mr. Taft and the Republican party are opposed to the bank deposit guarantee. Mr. Bryan and the Democratic party are in favor of the bank deposit guarantee. What is it? Every voter should understand it. It is simply this: When a man places money in bank on deposit, every bank in the United States shall guarantee the return of the money when he calls for it. The absconding of a cashier or other officer, or the failure of the bank will not cause the depositor to lose his money. Under the proposed Democratic law, it will be absolutely safe.

It works no hardship upon the banks. They make their profit out of the deposits of their customers. They loan these deposits—or at least, two thirds of them—at six per cent. Take an example: If a customer deposit $1,000 in a bank, the bank would make $40.00 per year. How much would the bank be taxed in order to make every depositor safe? According to statistics for a number of years of the losses of banks, by Richard E. Bird, late Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates, the losses have been one fifth of one per cent, or 20 cents on the thousand dollars. This would reduce the profits of the bank from $40.00 to $39.80 upon each one thousand dollars.

It is reasonably supposed that when people are assured that deposits in banks are absolutely safe, thousands of dollars, now held by private individuals, will be deposited in the banks, and that profits on the increased deposits will, at least, more than pay the small tax to insure the safety of the funds of the depositors.

The Democrats are in favor of this law. The Republicans oppose it.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

A democratic meeting at the Court House, last Monday, was addressed by Hon. Jas. Hay, our representative in Congress, and Hon. H. H. Downing, District Elector, of Front Royal.

Mr. Hay made a clear and concise statement of the issues involved in the present campaign, and, with his usual eloquence and force, spoke about forty minutes. He discussed the republican promises and showed that they had not been fulfilled. He was severe upon the Republican party for its failure to revise the tariff, which he clearly showed was the parent of the iniquitous trusts with which this country is cursed.

He clearly explained the guarantee of banks clause and after showing that it was desirable that the people should have security for their deposits, contents that it would benefit the banks themselves; for their deposits would be greatly increased when depositors would know that their money was absolutely safe.

He briefly referred to his record as the representative of this district in Congress.

His forcible, straight-forward way of presenting facts was well received by his audience. He was followed by Hon. H. H. Downing, who made an eloquent speech, severely criticizing Mr. Roosevelt, who, as President of the United States, was interfering with the legislative and judicial departments of the government.

He praised the wisdom of Bryan and exposed the schemes of those who protected the protected industries of the country.

STILL HARPING ON HASKELL

The plea of "No Funds" put forth by the Republican Campaign Managers is meant to perform the double duty of throwing dust into the eyes of the people and arousing the rascally corporations to a livelier sense of danger.

There has been no time when the Republican treasury was not full to the brim. But never before has there been so great a need of money to meet the exigencies of the situation which menace these corruptionists on every hand. There is scarcely a state which they have not to fight for. There are two debatable States at least in New England, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Big money will be required to carry them. Leave money out and both would go Democratic. Even the State of Maine hangs in the balance. Michigan, Iowa and Kansas are doubtful. The Democrats have a certainty in New York by not less than fifty thousand majority. The same is true of Indiana and Nebraska, whilst they hold the better of it in Ohio and Illinois.

The Republican managers know this and their sole hope is a campaign fund big enough to reach all the way from Hell to Breakfast; greenbacks to burn; money to throw to birds. Quay is dead and Mark Hanna is dead, but, lo, there stands William Nelson Cromwell.

Aye, Cromwell; Vanilla Bean Cromwell; Edouard Lampre Cromwell; Panama Canal Cromwell; the greatest promoter of modern times; that Cromwell who got up the Parisian scheme to bucco the United States out of Forty Millions of Dollars for a worthless lot of pots and pans; that Cromwell who financed the fly-by-night Republic of Panama, buccing us out of Ten Millions of Dollars more; that Cromwell who then worked us out of ten additional Millions of Dollars for expenses—Sixty Millions of Dollars in all—with a Five Hundred Million Dollar job still before us—William Nelson Cromwell, the Robin Hood of the Lobby at Washington, the Jesse James of Wall Street—All Baba Cromwell—Patron Saint of the Lawless Rich and Father Confessor to the Forty Thieves.

Yet the President is still harping on Haskell. Cromwell could give Haskell two points in Seven and beat him out of his shoes and stockings. Cromwell could shake the smallest of his money-bags in Haskell's face and make Haskell go way back and set down. Cromwell could play poker with Haskell and never need to look beyond the backs of the cards. Still the President harps on Haskell who is out and gone, "like Ranger's eye," who, demanding a hearing and denying all accusations, resigned at once his post in the Democratic management, whose voluntary withdrawal was concurrent with the enforced withdrawal of Du Pont, the predatory Trust Magnate, under indictment, who headed the Republican spell-binders; yet, with Du Pont that was, and Cromwell that is, the President continues to harp on Haskell.

There is Sheldon; identified with seventeen Trust Companies. Still harping on Haskell! There is Sunny Jim Sherman, the middle-man between the President and Harriman. Still harping on Haskell! There is Aldrich, Boss of the Senate, whose only daughter is the wife of the only son of Standard Oil Rockefeller. Still harping on Haskell! There is old Joe Cannon, Boss of the House, standing pat and holding firm for the trust-breeding tariff. Still harping on Haskell! There are the Three Musketeers of High Finance, the He Goats of Protectionism the self-righteous, self-glorifying Beveridge; the steel-plated Dillard and the uncious, iron-clad Payne. All of these, led by Roosevelt, still harping on Haskell.

Nothing can avail them. The Big Stick, even in the hands of a Cromwell, cannot brain and blackmail money enough out of the Steel Ring and the Sugar Ring—out of all Pittsburgh, out of the whole of Wall Street—to dam the waters of the Niagara of the people's wrath. If Mark Hanna were alive he could not save the day for Taft. If Matthew Stanley Quay were alive neither could he.

The President, kicking and shrieking like a spoiled child, balked of its will, bellowing like an angry boy, disappointed in his play, may take the stump—may follow Cromwell upon his mercenary round from Hell to Breakfast—to no purpose. The people have seen too much. They have heard too much. Honest, though stupid, Nicholas Longworth has told them the truth and he has told them enough. Two terms for Taft. Then two more terms for Roosevelt. The very inner thought—the very secret scheme—the very essence of the dynastic spirit.

So, come along, Mr. President, come along brandishing your big stick over the heads of the people whom you think so meanly of, come along with your flushed and swollen face and harsh voice, breathing death and the devil to all who resist you—mistaking the silence of the lowly and poor for meek humility—come along and each of them will say to you, even as Othello said to Cassio: "Theodore, I love thee; but be no more officer of mine."

Would Mortgage the Farm.

A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire, Ga., W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw: one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its weight in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25c at Walton & Smoot's drug store.

The Republicans are divided on the bank guarantee doctrine. Those who like it say it was originally a republican measure; while those who dislike it call it one of Bryan's vagaries.

Taft will do till Roosevelt wants the Presidency again for himself and afterwards for other members of the family whom his naming. Vote for Taft, if you want to aid the Roosevelt Dynasty.

QUICKSBURG

Jack Frost has been hiding behind some trees lately, last night he made his appearance and cooked the tomatoes that were left over from his other visits.

The farmers in this neighborhood are nearly through seeding.

Apple butter boiling is a thing of the past.

Rev. P. W. Wisman, of St. Luke, preached in Liberty church near here last Sunday morning and at night.

Rev. F. E. Hammon, of Mt. Jackson is holding a protracted meeting in the M. E. Church at this place.

The public schools in this community opened last Monday. We are sorry to state the attendance is very small. Pupils should start at the beginning and attend regularly the whole session.

Mr. Jno. L. Zirkle of R. F. D. mail carrier is taking his vacation and his deputy Jno. B. Spitzer is on the road. There will be an all day old time singing at Liberty church near Quicksburg, the last Sunday of October 25, inst. "Harmonia Sacra" will be used. Everybody, especially "old time singers," are cordially invited. Tell our old friend, Mr. Hiram Bauserman we should like him to be present, that there will be "fall dinner pails" for everybody.

Mr. W. R. Doll has gone to the eastern cities to purchase his fall and winter goods, he was accompanied by his "better half."

Mrs. Eliza E. Knott (nee Fox) wife of Mr. E. J. Knott of this place, died at her home last Tuesday night at the advanced age of 74 years, 11 months and 22 days.

She was born near Luray, on March 8th 1837, she married Mr. Knott, and December 1860 they moved from Luray to near this place. Mrs. Knott was a good woman, a kind neighbor, and will be missed by her many friends. She is survived by her husband, two sisters and one brother; her parents, three sisters and two brothers having preceded her to the spirit world. The esteem in which she was held in this and adjoining neighborhoods was shown by the large concourse of relatives and friends that followed her remains to Cedar Grove cemetery last Thursday evening where they were interred. Funeral services were held in the M. E. Church here. Elder B. W. Neff conducted the services. Her pall bearers were: Messrs. W. R. Doll, Henry McKinzie, Jno. L. Schaeffer, Mark Lowry, H. H. Walters and W. W. Farrow.

ZEPP.

Mrs. Charles Weaver returned to Washington last week where Mr. Weaver has a position and where they will make their future home.

MRS. HORNER FREE.

Riverhead, L. I., Oct. 9.—The Suffolk county grand jury failed to indict Mrs. Bartley T. Horner for assault in shooting Dr. James W. Simpson, and the announcement did not cause much surprise in this community. Had she been indicted, that fact would have caused a mild form of surprise. The dentist is said to have gotten a chilly reception at the hands of the jury, and moreover he made a very poor witness. The report is that some of the men in the box believe that he got no more than he deserved when he went to the Horner home—stead and molested the women, after they had repeatedly said they were afraid of him, and had several times requested him to keep away. In fact, the look from the jury includes the report that some of the members thought that an indictment would result in nothing more than giving the doctor another bit of evidence in the suit for damages that he has instituted against Mrs. Horner.

All the sympathy here, as in Northport, is with the widow, and the belief is general that she thought she was acting in self-defense when she shot Dr. Simpson, last summer. The case is regarded as unique in the criminal court cases of Suffolk county, in that there should be no eye-witnesses to a shooting affray and no indictment returned.

There are those uncharitable enough to say that Simpson's purpose in going to Northport was to nag the women into doing something that would give him grounds for an action for damages. At the time of the shooting Dr. Simpson actually conversed with his mother-in-law through a thin door, but paid no attention to her demand that he leave the premises. Mrs. Horner and Mrs. Simpson have both stated that they feared Dr. Simpson would some time kill them and it is now argued that when he visited the house they believed he was there to do them harm.

We Have Found It.

While Peary has been looking for the north pole, and has failed to find it, we have been looking for farms, timber land, and town property and have found them—found homes for the people, and people for the homes. A look at our list of properties we have for sale, and the list of customers, who want to buy, will convince you that we can sell anything you may have to sell and can supply you with that which you may want to buy. If you price your property reasonably and place it with us you won't own it long, and if you want to buy at a reasonable price call on us and you will get what you want in quick order as we have the goods.

Apply to J. N. DAVIS & CO., Real Estate Agents.

Wanted.

For a customer a farm in two or three miles of Woodstock of from 30 to 60 acres of good land, with good improvements. For the right sort of farm, we will pay a good price. Good prospects, good April 1st, 1909. Apply at once to J. N. Davis & Co., Woodstock, Va.

A Great Religious Movement in Baltimore.

Correspondence to the Shenandoah HERALD.

Gipsy Smith has spent ten days in the city leading a great crusade against the powers of darkness, and it is estimated that at least 1000 persons have made a profession of faith. The city was possibly never so stirred with religious enthusiasm. All denominations have taken part in the great movement.

Gipsy Smith was born in a Gipsy camp in England, embraced religion early in life, and for 20 years has been an evangelist, both in England and this country. He is a fine looking man, genial in manners, fluent in address, sympathetic, earnest, and pointed without being rude. He never attended school, yet his language is correct and his style charming. He is not a theologian, but he takes hold of the heart of the people with a grip that sways thousands at his will. The great Lyric Hall has been crowded at two services daily, and hundreds have stood up signifying a purpose to lead a new life. At the young people's meeting 400 sprang to their feet, and at a midnight service held in a theater, 200 men came out on the side of a better life. After service at Lyric the march of a great crusade of 10,000, followed on the side walk by 50,000, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," made the ears of the old city tingle with joy at midnight. Thousands were reached in saloons and along by ways who never attend church.

The swell of 3000 voices rolling and reverberating through the great hall inspired and thrilled the audience. The whole service was conducted in the most approved manner, and the lasting benefit to the city cannot be computed. Could this religious wave reach from the seacoast to the mountains tens of thousands of our people might be inspired by the enthusiasm of a pure and better life. There is no reason why the charity of the Almighty should be confined to large cities. The gospel is light for all, and if flashed from pulpits all ablaze with the love of God, the heart and home of our commonwealth may become a glow with heaven. Our whole land needs revival fire. Nothing can check the encroachment of popular vices on the good works of our people, stay the eager rush after ill-gotten gain, hush the clamor of political vituperation, rescue childhood, protect womanhood, lift the ballot box to honorable citizenship, and bring into the kingdom of God millions of criminals and offenders, but the pure and the simple teaching of Christ. The responsibility of lifting up the commonwealth rests upon the shoulders of those who hold public trust in Church and State. Heaven give us christian legislators and earnest preachers.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 13.—Miss Emma L. Stubbs, aged 44 years, took her own life this morning by jumping into the city reservoir, where she was found shortly afterward. She was assistant housekeeper at the Mary Baldwin Seminary and had been connected with that institution for fifteen years.

If they can use Taft for four or eight years and the Roosevelt family for 24 years, that is including the Longworth branch, the government will have all the strenuous desired.
